WELCOME TO WKND

MATT JUUL, BOSTON FEATURES EDITOR

Say goodbye to "Game of Thrones" Sundays and say hello to "Sunday Night Football." That's right, folks, the 2017 NFL season is set to kick off, and Tom Brady and the rest of our hometown heroes are ready to make another Super Bowl run. Hopefully the Patriots can start the weekend off right with a big win against the Chiefs on Thursday night at Gillette Stadium.

GEEK OUT WITH MARKY MARK AND BIG PAPI

If you're up for a trip to Rhode Island, make sure to stop by HASCON, a three-day toys and game convention in Providence. The event will feature appearances by a slew of Boston stars, including Mark Wahlberg, David Ortiz and more. For more, see pages 14-15.

Don't miss any of the action this season.

Cheer on the Patriots at these Boston bars

Who's ready for some football? MATT JUUL

The 2017 NFL season is finally here, which means it's time to find your favorite watering hole as New England begins its road to ring No. 6. Luckily, there's no shortage of sports bars in the Boston area, so there are plenty of places to catch all the action. Here's where you can grab a pint while cheering on the Patriots this season.

Cask n' Flagon

The popular, Fenway bar is a go-to destination for local sports fans, regardless of whether it's football or baseball season. In addition to its plethora of TVs, Cask has a solid beer menu with all your favorites on tap. In honor of the Pats first game, the bar has a special game day party planned for Thursday night hosted by 98.5 The Sports Hub, featuring a paper football contest, swag giveaways and more.
62 Brookline Ave., Boston, caskflagon.com

McGreevy's

You don't get more Boston than this fan-favorite, Irish pub on Boylston Street. Owned by Dropkick Murphys frontman Ken Casey, McGreevy's is going all out for football season this year. The bar and restaurant will have special menus, confetti cannons and more available during Patriots games. Plus, fill up on 35-cent wings when Monday Night Football returns.
911 Boylston St., Boston, mcgreevysboston.com

Stats

This South Boston bar and grill always shows sports fans a good time on game day. While you're enjoying the game on one of Stats' 22 flat-screen TVs, grab burgers, pizzas, quesadillas and other bites off of their massive menu.
77 Dorchester St., South Boston, statsboston.com

The Harp

While Boston sports fans usually flock to this bar after games at the Garden, it's a nice spot to catch some football too. Located right near North Station, the Harp has tons of TVs and a projection screen, plus NFL Sunday Ticket, so fans can watch all the gridiron action – regardless of what jersey they're wearing. The bar will host a special watch party for Thursday's Patriots opener.
85 Causeway St., Boston, harpboston.com

Tony C's

Another Fenway favorite, Tony C's has got you covered on game day. The bar, named after late Red Sox legend Tony Conigliaro, has a massive wall of TVs and even more screens in the bar area. There's also an awesome roof deck, which is a nice spot to grab a drink when the weather's cooperating.

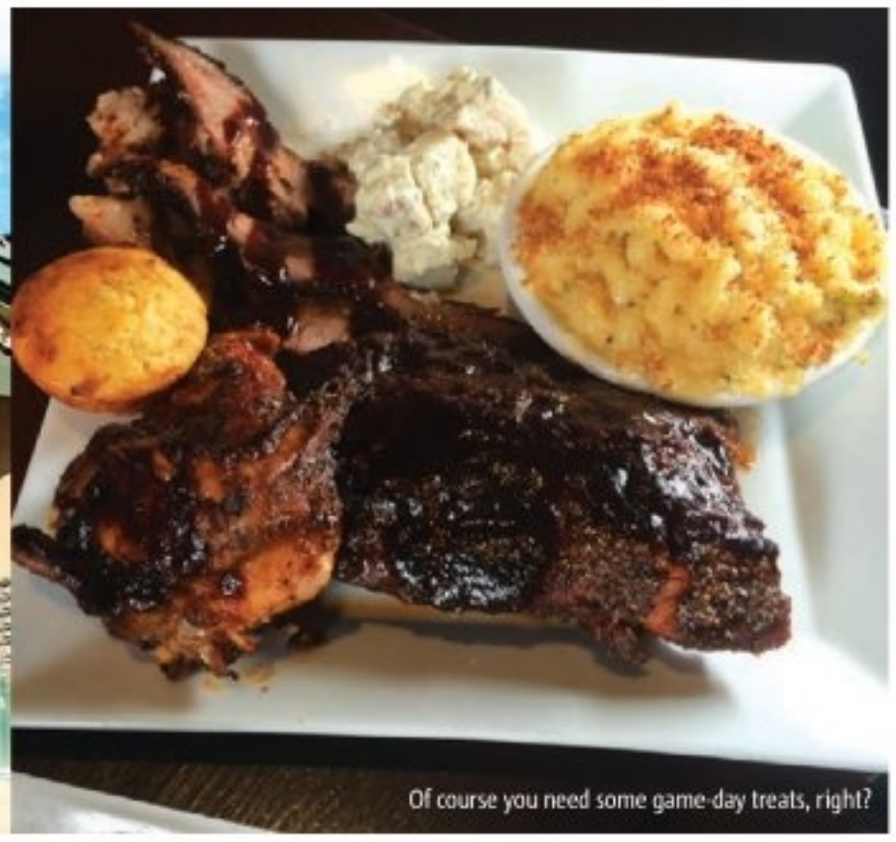
Show off your Patriots pride at Cask.



Of course you need some game-day treats, right?

#LIFETEMBER LESSONS

helping you understand life insurance

"I already have life insurance through work."

But what will that cover?

Getting life insurance through your employer is a good start. But more than likely, with a mortgage, bills, childcare and education–it just won't be enough. During Life Insurance Awareness Month, visit sbli.com/lifetember to learn how much life insurance you need to secure your family's financial future. Since 1907, we've helped over one million policyholders know they have the right amount of coverage in place, whether it's through work, a private policy or a combination of both.

New urban playground brings art and fun to the South End

Celebrate the debut of Underground with a weekend block party.

LINDA LABAN

The new, eight-acre park and public art project, called the Underground, is located beneath the I-93 overpass. JOSEPH PREZIOSO

Even the mightiest of projects finds improvement from prettying up those dark corners.

After the additions of apartments, condos and retail to the former Boston Herald headquarters in the South End, the not-quite-finished, six-acre Ink Block development will celebrate the opening of a new urban park called the Underground on Saturday. This weekend's block party introduces this eight-acre space and public art project in what used to be a freeway underpass.

It's a nice transformation for the grim city corner, which will now feature vibrant graffiti art murals, plus plenty of trees and plants.

"It was a dark, scary place people wouldn't want to walk past, let alone go into," says Ted Tye, managing partner of Ink Block's developers National Development. "The idea was to make it bright, light and populated."

But Underground at Ink Block isn't just a pretty playground; it's also a useful thoroughfare giving walking or biking access between two hitherto separated neighborhoods.

"It has made the gap between the South End and South Boston smaller, it links two communities," says Tye. "If someone lives at Ink Block and wants to take the Broadway MBTA stop, they can just walk over there now.

It's a big thing for the South End and South Boston."

This Saturday's block party emphasizes the fun side of the project with a lineup of music, food trucks, a beer garden and lawn games —all in order to unveil the work of the artists who transformed over 150,000 square feet of blank concrete, including Boston's own Imagine876, Marka27, Percy Fortini Wright, Problak, Ewok, Thy Doan and Andrew Balboa.

Tye emphasizes the support of sports gear company Reebok, which recently moved its longtime headquarters in Canton into the Seaport District in South Boston.

"This kind of event speaks to their audience," Tye says. "They were key in helping get it going."

The project is a part of MassDOT's InfraSpace program as well, as MassDot is the owner of the space due to its proximity to the highway. According to Tye, the program was specifically designed to "revitalize these underutilized spaces."

Practical and pretty, Tye believes it is an immediate enhancement.

"It's meant to be used as a passageway, but we decided to make it special," he says. "We want it to be one of the city's fun places."

New Bladder Control Pill Reduces Frequency of Urinary Accidents

New Double-Blind Clinical Study Shows UriVarx Can Reduce Bladder and Bathroom Urgency, Leakage and Incontinence... It Even Reduces Middle of the Night Bathroom Trips

Steve Stellar,
Health Reporter

NEW YORK, NY – Frequent, uncontrollable urination is no laughing matter. Add it to all of the other stresses in life and it can be nothing short of a nightmare.

That helpless feeling of your bladder bursting and the worry of not making it to the bathroom in time can be absolutely terrifying.

The loss of dignity and the fear and embarrassment of "not making it" creates one of the most difficult health problems, you'll ever deal with.

But you're not alone with your bladder issues. According to The National Institute of Health, as many as 33 million Americans are affected by bladder control problems, exactly like those described above.

Bladder Problems...The One Secret You'll Never Tell

According to a long-time clinician and one of the world's leading experts in the natural treatment of bladder control issues, "Most people who have overactive bladders choose to keep their problems a secret."

In fact, she went on to say, "They don't even tell their spouse or families about it. It affects their lives in every way, influencing where they go, and even what they will wear in case they have an accident."

Amazing Clinical Results

Patients using UriVarx™ experience all these benefits:

- Reduction in Urge Incontinence
- Reduction in Stress Incontinence
- Reduction in Urinary Urgency
- Reduction in Urinary Frequency
- Reduction in Nocturia (bedtime episodes)

PATIENTS STARTED SEEING RESULTS IN AS LITTLE AS 2 WEEKS.

And forget about making a fashion statement, "Black is the color of choice, as it can hide evidence of public accidents."

But bladder control issues may now be a thing of the past. That's because a new pill is now available that has impressive results when used daily. In the double blind placebo control clinical trials published on www.clinicaltrials.gov, the 150 patients enrolled in this powerful clinical trial and who took UriVarx™ for eight weeks experienced a large and statistically significant reduction in overactive bladder and urinary incontinence symptoms.

The proprietary formulation called UriVarx™ was clinically tested and proven to reduce incontinence, stress incontinence, urgency, frequency and nocturia (having to go at night). Some participants even reported complete reversal of their nocturia within 2 weeks!

UriVarx... Users Rejoice!

This new pill has completely changed the life of Brandy W., a 45 year-old mother of three from Brisbane, CA.

Brandy stated, "I had a high bladder frequency as a child, but my frequency really worsened after the birth of my first child."

After a friend told her about UriVarx™, Brandy decided to give it a try. "After 2 weeks, I already noticed changes" said Brandy.

She went on to say, "I was finding that although I felt I needed to urinate, I wasn't as desperate to run to the toilet. Now, when I get up in the morning, I'm able to make the coffee and even have a cup before needing to go, which is a great improvement!"

How Does It Work?

UriVarx™ helps support bladder health by revitalizing bladder tone and function and by helping support kidney health

The active ingredients promote normal urinary frequency and they reduce urgency, nocturia and those embarrassing accidents.

The compound invigorates the tone of the bladder wall, assisting a healthy level of firmness by enhancing the bladder's muscular elasticity. This reduces the frequent urge to urinate.

Positive and Strong Clinical Studies

This new pill recently shocked the medical community with its overwhelmingly positive results in a new published clinical study.

Study participants were randomized and assigned to either a treatment group or a placebo group at two separate facilities. Both groups were monitored for a variety of bladder symptoms at week two, four and eight during the 2-month study.

At the end of the study, those receiving UriVarx™ showed significant improvements in all symptoms, including day frequency, night frequency and urgency. And what was even more impressive were the quality of life improvements the test subjects experienced. A full 84% of those taking UriVarx™ said "Yes!" to the question... "Have you had any benefit from your treatment?" Compared to only 18% of the placebo group.

This new pills patented formula consists of a proprietary blend of select, synergistically paired botanicals. All chosen because of their ability to support healthy urinary and kidney function, maintain the health of the urinary tract and improve bladder tone.

International Decrease In Adult Diaper Use

Over-active bladder syndrome is a widely spread problem, Many individuals are forced to wear adult diapers or padded underwear which can be embarrassing, lead to skin irritation and create odors. Insiders in the adult diaper market are keeping a close eye on the success of UriVarx™. They don't want to lose their good customers like 78 year-old retired teacher Glenda B.

Glenda wore adult diapers every day to guard against accidents. "My bladder capacity was good, but the leakage and the accidents would occur without warning. So I wore them every day," confessed Glenda.

Since Glenda discovered UriVarx™ bladder control formula, you won't find her shopping in the adult diaper section of the store anymore.

"After only two months on UriVarx™, I reduced my need to wear my diapers. Now I manage very well, thank you," says Glenda. And Glenda's results are similar to many in a recent study. In fact, of those who reported using adult diapers at the beginning of the study 75% of them no longer needed them after just 8 weeks, compared to only 5% of the placebo group.

Enlarged Prostate or Bladder Issues?

Symptoms of an overactive bladder can mimic those caused by an enlarged prostate, confusing many men. Prostate enlargement restricts urine flow. The bladder compensates for this by trying harder and harder to push urine out.

Urivarx: This new patented clinically proven pill solution is now available nationwide

As pressure in the bladder increases, so do instances of urinary urgency and frequency. Long after prostate issues are handled, many men still experience the same symptoms, thanks to their now overactive bladder.

Great Results Whether You're a Man or a Woman

Because male and female bladders, other than size are identical, The formula works equally well for both men and women.

It's a his-and-hers formula, David M., a 46 year old male can attest to this. "I was having to go to the toilet every hour or so and I had to go to the toilet at least four times per night."

For weeks after starting UriVarx, David says, "My trips to the toilet have definitely reduced and I'm having much better sleep, getting up maybe once per night."

If you're ready to alleviate the uncontrollable urge to urinate, forcing you to make frantic trips to the bathroom, and instead want the confidence and security that a healthier bladder can bring to your life, here's your risk free opportunity.

Metro Readers Qualify for a Special Discount

To encourage you to experience the life-changing effect UriVarx™ can have, Innovus Pharmaceuticals is offering a special discount for Metro readers – but only for a very limited time. An order Hotline has been set up for local readers. Simply call 1-800-724-6149. Supplies are limited, so they will only be taking orders for the next 72 hours. Comedian Trae Crowder explains New England's version of rednecks

Most people probably don't associate the South with progressive values, but Trae Crowder and his crew hope to change that perception.

The Tennessee-born comic, along with his pals Corey Forrester and Boston College alum Drew Morgan are bringing their "WellRED" comedy tour to the Wilbur on Friday night. The Southern-based, stand-up trio has been making waves since the release of their book "The Liberal Redneck Manifesto," which tries to combat the South's right-wing reputation.

Ahead of this weekend's show, we asked Crowder to clear up some Southern misconceptions.

What does it mean to be a liberal redneck?
The three of us are progressive, Southern guys, but also progressive, Southern comedians. To some people, that sounds like an oxymoron, but it's really not. Basically, we sound like the Blue Collar comedy guys, but the things we say and believe are the exact opposite of what a lot people would expect guys like us would say and think.

What are some misconceptions Boston liberals have of the South?
People in the coastal areas, because they look at an electoral map or whatever and see that sea of red, there's misconception that the vast majority of people in the South all think the same thing and vote the same way, and that's not at all true. People say to me all the time, "You're like a unicorn." I always try to tell them I'm really not. Am I in the minority where I come from? Yes. But I know plenty of other people who are like me.

Can New Englanders be rednecks?
When most people think of a redneck, the type of person that they think of, those people exist all over the country, for sure. I've seen it. There are people that, by any other name, would be a redneck in Oregon, California or whatever. For example, we were in Vermont, New England, and I never heard this before, but the people at the show told us that up there, their equivalent of rednecks, they call them woodchucks.

Does all the news coming out of the White House make your job harder?
Yeah, it can be tough to keep up with at times.

If you go

Another thing that makes it hard, when things are as ridiculous as they are right now, especially when it comes to the White House and all that, a lot of people think that it would make a comedian's job easier with somebody like Trump in office, but that's really kind of not true. The man is a parody of himself. It's hard to even know what to say or where to go from what the reality is. It's hard to be more ridiculous than what is actually happening.

Ken Reid talks 'Cheers' and the best old-school TV shows

Massachusetts comic's TV Guide podcast celebrates 250 episodes.

MATT JUUL

Remember when you had to flip through a TV Guide to find out what was on? Boy, how times have changed.

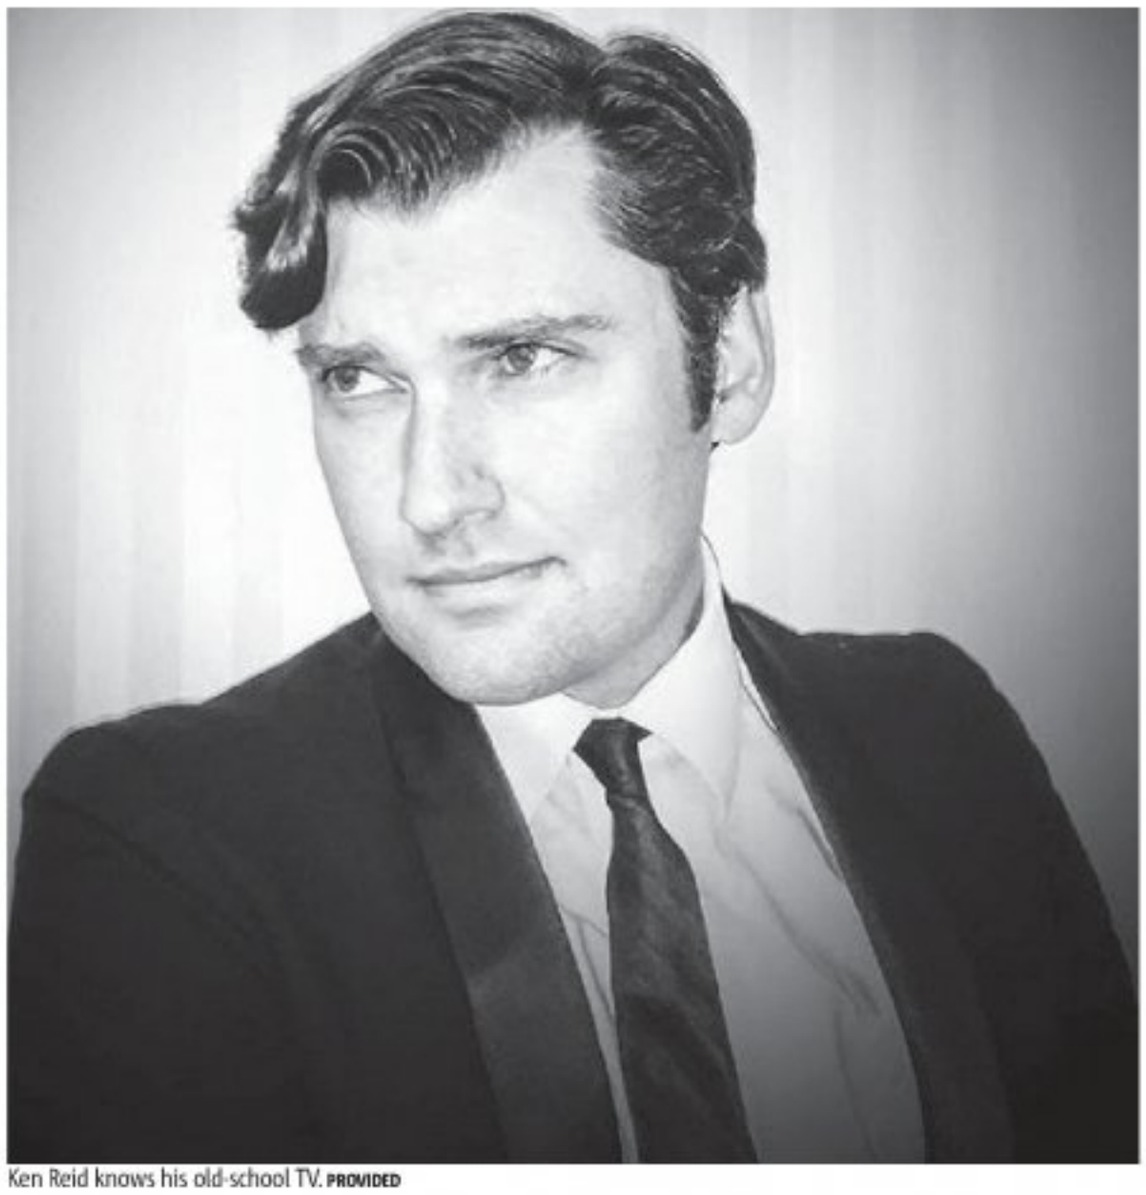
While the world of television is experiencing a golden age of programing, fans can take trips down memory lane thanks to Ken Reid's "TV Guidance Counselor" podcast. The Massachusetts comic's popular show takes a deep dive into what people were watching back in the day, as he flips through old TV Guide issues with special guests ranging from "Weird" Al Yankovic to Dana Gould.

The podcast celebrates its 250th episode this weekend with a free, big bash at the Comicazi comic book shop in Somerville, featuring an appearance by "Bob's Burger" star and fellow Bay State native Larry Murphy. The evening includes trivia, video clips and even a few prizes.

We chatted with Reid about his show's big milestone, his love of "Cheers" and more.

You've done 250 episodes of the podcast. That's a lot of TV talk.
Over 10 full days of my life I've spent on this show, but it's exciting. I'm sort of the biggest fan of the show in a non-vain way in that I make a show that I want to listen to. I can't believe I get to meet and talk to these people that I've admired since I was a kid.

How did growing up in Massachusetts influence your comedy and love of TV?
Boston is a unique place because so many performers grew up here or developed their sense of humor here, that it's such a weird conflict of being the crucible of education in the country, but it's also an incredibly blue collar, provincial place as well. I developed an odd outlook on the world as an outsider but also a homebody. Plus it's very cold and people are angry and that makes people funny because you have to have a sense of humor to survive through it.



Ken Reid knows his old-school TV. PROVIDED

I'm guessing you were a "Cheers" fan.
"Cheers" I absolutely loved. I remember going to the Bull & Finch with my dad as a kid and being really disappointed that Sam, Diane and everybody wasn't working. It was a surreal show of people that I know. Other shows didn't seem that way.

What's an old-school show everyone should binge watch?
Absolutely "Barney Miller." It's a perfect show. Anyone who wants to write comedy or realize how to write characters, I always recommend "Barney Miller." It's literally four or five guys in a room, and it's just great acting and dialogue. Even though the fashion's very '70s, it's a timeless show. Also, "The Adventures of Pete & Pete," which is an absolutely perfect show. It's so surreal, bizarre and really captures what it feels like to be that age when everything's a big deal. It's funny, bittersweet and just a great show that I think wouldn't feel dated and would appeal to anybody.

Cirque du Soleil's 'Ovo' takes to the skies in Boston

Get the scoop on this bug's life tale. CATHERINE PERLOFF

As Alanna Baker sauntered on the slack wire above the huge arena, adorned in an elaborate red and black leotard as the spider in Cirque du Soleil's "Ovo," only one thought crossed her mind: Did my parents see me screw up?

"We make mistakes, not look like mistakes," Baker says. "They're not mistakes, they're just differences."

Baker and fellow acrobat Kyle Cragle recently stopped by the Harvard Museum of Natural History's "Arthropods: Creatures that Rule" exhibit, studying the insects which they portray in "Ovo." As they prepare to perform in Boston at the Agganis Arena, these high-flying performers, capable of impossible, bug-like stunts, share their human side.

"I like chocolate. I like movies. I like to be lazy too," admits Cragle, who plays the hand-balancing dragonfly. "I work my butt off at work but we [Cirque performers] are regular. We're normal."

Both Baker and Cragle got their start in gymnastics. Baker represented her native England in global competitions, earning the title of European champion in 2011. She says, as a gymnast, she would have to train religiously for one competition, but as a Cirque performer, she must be prepared for multiple shows per week.

"Sometimes, things don't go as planned but you've got to remember you have another show in two hours time," Baker says. "If you're going to beat yourself up about it, you [still] need to pick yourself up again to do another show."

Thankfully, these bugs are performers and not pests.

While Cragle trained as a gymnast too, he always dreamed of performing in Cirque du Soleil since he was kid. Cragle joined Cirque shortly after graduating the National Circus School's high school program in 2016.

"Every day, I smile because I remind myself that this is what you worked for," says Cragle. "No matter how you feel now, no matter how you're going to feel after this, this is that moment that you worked 10 or 11 years for."

He says he prefers the artistry of acrobatics to the competitive, athletic nature of professional gymnastics.

"You look into that person in the front audience, [and] they might have a tear in their eye," Cragle says. "People come up to me and tell me that they started crying during my number."

Cragle and Baker both note that they draw inspiration from the audience, sometimes altering their performances based on the crowd's reaction.

"A lot of people don't want to make a noise," Baker says. "They think it will distract you. Sometimes it's nice, that silence is golden, but also it's nice to get that response — especially at the end of the show with that standing ovation."

There is one way these acrobats may differ from the rest of us: They definitely aren't too concerned about falling as they perform gravity-defying feats on stage.

"Let's get real," Cragle says. "We're all performers, so we're all adrenaline junkies."

YOUR WEEKEND STARTS NOW

FESTIVALS

Boston Arts Festival

Inaugurated by Tom Menino in 2003, this annual celebration of what the Festival affectionately refers to as "the ahts," features dozens of visual artists, craftspeople and musicians, showcasing the ever-vibrant artistic scene of a city better known for its colleges, historical tourism, and corporate powerhouses. Past festivals have brought as many as 50,000 aht-lovahs to the waterfront.
Sept. 9-10, Christopher Columbus Waterfront Park, Atlantic Ave. at Mercantile St., free, thebostonartsfestival.com

Cambridge Carnival

This is the 25th annual Cambridge Carnival, a celebration of Afro-Caribbean culture that starts with a spirited parade from Central Sq. to Kendall Sq., famed for the colorful, handmade costumes of its participants. Then the festival kicks off in earnest at Kendall, with tons of live music, food, crafts vendors and everything else you've come to expect.
Sept. 10, 12 p.m. to 7 p.m., various locations, Cambridge, free, cambridgecarnival.org

THEATER

"WarholCapote"

True story: when a young Andy Warhol saw an also-young Truman Capote's notorious first author photo (Google it), he was transfixed. It took years for them to become friends, but by the late '70s they were even working on a Broadway musical. This American Repertory Theater production is adapted by Rob Roth from hours of taped conversations around that time.
Sept. 9-Oct. 13, Loeb Drama Center, 64 Brattle St., Cambridge, $25-$85, americanrepertorytheater.org

COMEDY

Boston Comedy Arts Festival

This annual comedy blowout at Improv Boston is a feast of both performances and workshops. There are more than 300 artists in all, some international. Improv is best represented, with one night devoted exclusively to the immortal Harold, but there will also be sketch and stand-up showcases, musical comedy, a couple live podcast recordings and even a little juggling.
Through Sept. 10, ImprovBoston, 40 Prospect St., Cambridge, $14-$22, bostoncomedyfestival.com

COMEDY

Gaby Dunn and Allison Raskin

This Los Angeles comedy duo, known for their YouTube channel Just Between Us, describe themselves as "co-dependent besties." They perform as a classic "odd couple"—Gaby the more worldly, Allison the more conventional—providing amusing, roundabout answers to viewers' relationship questions. Now they've published a book whose title, "I Hate Everyone But You," would definitely be an intense text to get. Sept. 7, 7:30 p.m., Wilbur Theatre, 246 Tremont St., $17-$82, thewilbur.com

MAGIC

Joe LeDoux

Local magician Joe LeDoux has an generously unorthodox sense of his art form's scope, even considering skateboarding a form of magic, which is probably why he's at Maximum Hesh tonight, where he'll show some of his visual art and films as well as perform his signature conceptual illusions, by which he hopes to leave his audience, in his words, "feeling animated."
Sept. 8, 7 p.m., Maximum Hesh, 378A Highland Ave., Somerville, $5, joeledoux.com

FAMILY FUN

HasCon

The Pawtucket-based Hasbro Corp. is a behemoth in the world of toys and games, possessing such hot properties as Parker Brothers and Milton Bradley, Dungeons and Dragons, Transformers, Nerf, Play Doh, Mr. Potato Head, My Little Pony—and it goes on. All those universes will collide at this convention, boasting such primo celeb guests as Mark Wahlberg, David Ortiz, Stan Lee, and others. Sept. 8-10, Rhode Island Convention Center/Dunkin' Donuts Center, Providence, $30-$165, hascon.hasbro.com

about Hiroshima survivor Shigeaki Mori's quest to identify the 12 American prisoners of war who were killed in the singularly horrific 1945 American bombing. It's a story that confronts the limits of war's senseless savagery and the heights of human goodness that can still emerge in its wake. Sept. 7-8, Anchor Room, 50 Milk St., $10, japansocietyboston.org

"The Warriors"

In 2017, the not-yet-gentrified New York of 1979's gangland fantasia "The Warriors" seems to exist not just in another decade, but in another country altogether. The film was, reportedly, so evocative that its release provoked vandalism and even murders—something that director Walter Hill has attributed to the fact that rival gang members would both unwittingly attend the same screenings! Sept. 8, 11:59 p.m., Coolidge Corner Theatre, 290 Harvard St., Brookline, $13, coolidge.org

MUSIC

JP Music Fest

Allston will always be Rock City—well, at least as long as bands can actually afford to live there—but JP's no musical slouch, as this annual festival attests, with a seriously diverse array of performances in jazz, rock, folk, world, Americana, rockabilly, Afro-pop and on and on—nearly 20 bands in all, on two stages. It seems like a fine way to bid summer adieu. Sept. 9, 12 p.m. to 7 p.m., Pinebank Field, Jamaica Pond, Perkins St. at Jamaicaway, Jamaica Plain, free, jpmusicfestival.com

Bayside/Potty Mouth

This bill is a mini-history lesson in recent punk-pop history. Bayside emerged from Long Island in the early '00s, with a cathartic pop/hardcore fusion similar to peers like Fall Out Boy or Taking Back Sunday. Potty Mouth emerged from western Massachusetts in 2013, representative of the many punk-pop bands in this decade who've exchanged hardcore influences for indie pop, garage and '90s alt-rock. Sept. 10, 6 p.m., Paradise Rock Club, 967 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, $23-$27, all ages, crossroadspresents.com

SHOPPING

Rock and Roll Yard Sale

Hipsters, your yard sale is here, with vendors distributing all that stuff ya'll like, like vinyl records, vintage clothing and DIY everything. Even those who've combed through everything at In Your Ear and the Garment District may be pleasantly surprised. There will be a DJ and three live bands: the Low Cards, the Silks and Willa Mamet and Paul Miller. Sept. 10, 11 a.m.-5 p.m., Union Square Plaza, 90 Union Sq., Somerville, free, facebook.com/SomervilleRockAndRollYardSale

A Boston library card: How to get one, and what it can do for you

September is National Library Card Sign-Up Month and if you're new to Boston, here's what a BPL card gets you. KRISTIN TOUSSAINT

The stunning interior inside Boston Public Library's Central location at 700 Boylston Street. WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

Allston Christmas is over and Boston's new residents are starting to settle in. If you're new to the city, there's a lot to take care of when you first arrive, but here's one more thing to add to your list: sign up for a library card.

September is National Library Card Sign-Up Month, which coincides well in Boston with the influx of new residents. Whether you're a student or not, a library card can open up resources across the city.

And if you think libraries are a relic from the past, think again. The Boston Public Library has actually seen an increase in both visitors and new cardholders, BPL spokeswoman Rosemary Lavery said.

"With the huge numbers of new residents, students and visitors combined and an ever-growing local population, we are continually inviting people to discover and rediscover the library and all we have to offer in Copley Square and across the whole city," BPL President David Leonard added.

The BPL's fiscal years run from July 1 to June 30 and in the 2017 fiscal year, more than 75,600 new library cards were issued to adults alone (teens accounted for 1,218 new cards and children for 6,079). That's up from 66,700 new adult cards in 2016.

In 2016, BPL's Central Library and other branches had about 3.4 million visitors. In 2017, more than 3.7 million people visited the library.

Some of that might be because of the Central Library's recent renovations, Lavery said, but the case for libraries is still compelling.

Public libraries just earned a nod from the Pew Research Center, which released a report Aug. 30 that found that most Americans, especially Millennials, say that libraries can help them find reliable and trustworthy information amidst worries that fake news is spreading confusion across the country.

About eight in 10 adults feel that public libraries help them find information that is trustworthy and reliable, and 76 percent of adults say that libraries help them learn new things, according to Pew.

At BPL branches, a library card certainly grants you access to reference material, print sources and librarians who can answer reference questions, but there's also a plethora of digital options.

With a card, you can download e-books, including Kindle titles, and audio books from the BPL's catalog. Aside from books, you can also read digital magazines and borrow and stream music, movies and television shows for your tablet, smartphone or laptop.

A card allows for more than just consuming media, as well. BPL offers free access to online tools to help you learn a language, like Powerspeak and Mango. In addition, there's even one geared toward children so your whole family can learn a new language together. Another idea for a family event or for learning about your new city? A museum trip. With a BPL card, you can get museum passes for everything from the Boston Children's Museum, the MFA, the Museum and Science to the New England Aquarium, the Massachusetts Audubon Wildlife Sanctuaries, Boston by Foot tours and much more.

"Anyone who lives, works, or goes to school in Massachusetts can have a Boston Public Library card," Leonard said. "Come on by and check us out!"

To get a Boston Public Library card, you can apply at any branch location or register for an eCard online.

Get the lead out: Parents urged to take action on lead in school drinking water

Environmental activists have created a Get the Lead Out toolkit so parents can champion change in their children's water. KRISTIN TOUSSAINT

Lead has been confirmed in nearly half of about 67,000 school water fountains, state testing has found, according to Environment Massachusetts. PIXABAY

As children head back to school, environmental advocates are equipping parents with resources to address the issue of lead contamination in school water fountains.

"Since Flint, Michigan, the issue of lead in drinking water has come to national attention," said Ben Hellerstein, state director of the Environment Massachusetts Research and Policy Center. "We haven't yet seen a tragedy on that same scale here in Massachusetts, but we know this is a problem that is widespread."

Lead has been confirmed in about half of 67,000 samples of school drinking water across the state, according to a report from Environment Massachusetts and Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group (MassPIRG).

In most of those confirmed cases, the sample showed that the concentration was above 1 part per billion — the threshold recommended by the American Academy of Pediatrics, according to Deirdre Cummings of the MassPIRG Education Fund.

The academy "basically said that there is no safe level," of lead, Cummings added, but that level is meant to indicate that "anything above 1 part per billion is dangerous and we need to eliminate it."

The two organizations worked together to create a Get the Lead Out "Back to School" toolkit to let parents know what they can do to address the issue.

The toolkit is meant to energize parents to take action within their own communities, hopefully spurring change across the state.

"Now that data is out there, it's up to all of us to take action and fix it," Hellerstein said. "We're working on the state level, but there's no reason why parents in the local community should wait."

Along with educating parents about the issue of lead contamination and what health impacts the neurotoxin can have, especially on children, the toolkit offers templates for letters to officials, petitions and social media posts parents can use to build support.

Advocates hope the attention will lead to tangible changes, such as replacing water service lines that are still made of lead and installing filters in water fountains where lead has been detected.

Though there's no large-scale tragedy yet, any lead in drinking water should be a thing of the past, Cummings said.

"Particularly now at a time when we have driverless cars, 3-D printers, [etc.]," she said, "we really ought not to tolerate a system that delivers lead-laden water to anyone, let alone our children."

Why can't kids get enough of squishies and fidget spinners?

What is behind the skyrocketing rise in popularity of these fidget-type toys, and can they really help improve kids' attention? HAYDEN MITMAN

Over the past year, fidget spinners have risen in popularity across the country.

But, according to New York Magazine, these types of devices might soon be outsold by a new "squishie" toy, that works like a typical, squeezable stress ball.

"The squishies are like, the next thing," said Adrienne Appell, director of strategic communications for the Toy Association, a not-for-profit trade group that represents businesses in the toy industry.

Squishies often take the shape of treats.

But, what is behind the meteoric rise of these types of fidget toys? And, is there any proof that these kinds of toys can actually help improve a child's attention span?

"There are so many ways that kids are finding out about it now," she said. "It's very, very easy for a toy to go viral."

The benefit that these new fidget-type toys have, according to Roland Rotz, Ph.D., a licensed child and adult psychologist and director of the Lifespan Development Center in Carpinteria, California, who is an expert on ADD and who co-authored a book, "Fidget to Focus," is that these toys can benefit a child's attention span.

He explained that we live in a world where — unlike in the past where books and radio required more imagination from an audience — entertainment is now realized for the audience.

Squishies have recently gained in popularity. ALL PHOTOS WERONIKA KWIATKOWSKA

"We have a world where a 2-year-old can use an iPad," said the 65-year-old Rotz. "The world is created for you now."

This can cause children and young adults raised in this type of environment could be bored easily, he said. He said that telling children to sit still and pay attention just doesn't work, but, by using these types fidget toys as background stimuli, a child can focus on tasks they might have otherwise found boring.

In fact, in a 2006 study, sixth-grade students who were given stress balls — similar to the squishies — were found to improve students' "attitude, attention, writing abilities, and peer interaction."

Dopamine controls the brain's reward and pleasure centers, and Rotz said that by using these devices while students do a chore they don't enjoy, they can focus more on the chore because the brain is engaged.

The new challenge, he said, comes with ensuring these devices — which come in all colors and shapes — don't become a distraction to other students when a student is using one around them.

"If they allow [students] to stimulate their brain quietly, that's one thing," he said. "But, it has to be done respectfully. If it's a distraction to anyone else, then it's not as effective."

What are squishies?

Here's what you need to know about the squishy fad.

Squishies smell good. Some squishies come equipped with a scent that reflects the toy's shape. Strawberry squishies smell like the sweet fruit, cake smells like delicious baked goods, and so on.

Squishies keep you calm. Much like slime, stress balls and fidget spinners, squishies are designed to relieve stress by letting people release their excess energy.

Squishies come in many forms. Although many squishies look like food — donuts, ice cream, cookies — some of them also look like animals.

Squishies aren't expensive. Small sizes, which fit in the palm of a hand, can run as low as $1 for one, and you can buy a pack of 20 assorted squishies for $15 on Amazon. Larger squishies, such as a three-tier cake squishy, runs as high as $20 for one.

Abu Dhabi, the extreme emirate

The emirate of Abu Dhabi is packed with thrills, from the world's tallest roller coaster to desert safaris.

Fodor's Travel

Go dune bashing in the Empty Quarter for a heart-pumping way to see the desert. GETTY IMAGES

With the Persian Gulf to one side and the desert on the other, the United Arab Emirates' capital city is one of the world's popular destinations for adventure travelers.

In Abu Dhabi, you can drive a Ferrari, ride the world's tallest roller coaster loop, go dune bashing, wakeboarding or quad biking... it's all or everything in this extremely unusual city.

Ride the World's Highest Roller Coaster

There aren't many places on earth where you can zoom 150 miles per hour in a Ferrari, and experience the world's highest non-inverted loop roller coaster all in one afternoon. Then again, Ferrari World isn't your usual theme park. The high-voltage complex is home to the Formula Rossa, the world's fastest roller coaster, reaching 149 miles per hour in less than 5 seconds. The park recently opened its latest thrill: Turbo Track, which lets riders experience a Ferrari Test Driver sensation as they endure a hair-raising "zero gravity fall."

Drive a Racecar

Keen to zip around a real F1 track? Book an afternoon on the Yas Marina Circuit, where the Formula One races provide the opportunity to experience life in the driver's seat. The adventure begins with a test drive, a trip to the pit, and a tutorial, followed by a few laps in your choice of racecar, from Formula YAS 3000 to an Aston Martin GT4, a Ferrari 458 GT and a Jaguar F-Type S Coupe.

Explore the World's Largest Uninterrupted Desert

Just an hour outside of Abu Dhabi, the Al Khatim Desert sprawls in all directions. Trips with Nuzhath Ideas Abu Dhabi Desert Safari take travelers into the vast sandy expanse for safaris and "dune bashing." Beginning with a drive through the desert, a Toyota Land cruiser will take you crashing into the top of the desert's highest dunes. Moving on, travelers can strap up to try sandboarding, a camel ride, a visit to a traditional Bedouin camp, belly dancing, shisha, henna and an Arabic barbecue.

Practiced for centuries in Abu Dhabi, falconry played an important role in the country's desert past and remains a symbol of courage and strength. At the Anantara Sir Bani Yas Island Resort, you can learn the ins and outs of training this fierce animal with the help of a professional handler, who practices traditional telwah techniques. During the demonstration, the falcon swoops into the air at a speed of up to 223 miles per hour, only to return to its trainer's arm with a soft landing. After the demonstration, guests can try their hand at holding and feeding the falcons.

Go on a Midnight ATV Ride

There's quad biking, and then there's midnight daredevil dune drives on all-terrain vehicles (ATVs). If you're after a real thrill, book an overnight safari with Quad Bike Abu Dhabi. The nocturnal tour is a star-lit joyride across rolling dunes in powerful four-wheelers boasting 250cc to 800cc engines. Never driven an ATV before? Not to worry. Drivers are equipped with safety gear and a thorough briefing before testing their mettle.

Work Up a Sweat While Dune Biking

It might look like a sophisticated, sun-soaked Arabian palace, but the Qasr Al Sarab Desert Resort By Anantara knows how to turn up the energy. The desert hotel, tucked away in Abu Dhabi's Empty Quarter, offers "fat biking" — two-wheel bicycles with extra wide, heavy tires to ensure a smooth drive up and down the dunes. The experience takes place amidst the golden sands of the Liwa Desert, which doubles as one giant BMX park, albeit with the occasional camel and gazelle sighting.

Go Wakeboarding in the Desert

Between the city and the airport, the Al Forsan International Sport Resort is the go-to center for urban adventures. The enormous complex has everything: paintball, wakeboarding, shooting ranges, horseback riding, and go-karts that reach up to 68 miles per hour. Not only are the facilities well maintained and modern, but there are coaches and trainers on hand for those hoping to pick up some new skills.

Surf the World's Largest Manmade Wave

Home to Ferrari World and the Yas Circuit, Yas Island is the city's epicenter of entertainment. For family-friendly fun, spend a day at Yas Waterworld, where more than 43 rides and attractions await. There's Slither's Slides for a downhill splash, the Bandit Bomber roller coaster, and Jebel Drop speed slide. But serious daredevils will want to queue up for the Liwa Loop — a chute-like ride where the floor opens from underfoot.

2017 NFL SEASON PREVIEW

Metro sports editors predict the 2017 NFL season.

METRO STAFF
@Metro_US
sports@metro.us

Metro's sports editors in Boston (Matt Burke), Philly (Evan Macy) and New York (Joe Pantorno) made their predictions on which players and teams will reign supreme in the NFL in 2017.

Football is finally back!

And here is what to expect this season:

AFC Champion

Burke: Patriots. The Pats' best competition in the AFC is Oakland and Pittsburgh. Despite the presence of Khalil Mack, the Raiders finished 20th in defensive PPG last season. They're not ready yet. The Pats absolutely own the Steelers and there's no way Pittsburgh is going into Gillette in January and coming out victorious.

Macy: Steelers. Hear me out. The Patriots' success rides on the right arm of a 40-year-old QB, an oft-injured and hard partying tight end, an offense already devoid of its top WR, and a defense built on the backs of mercenary free agents unfamiliar with Bill Belichick's culture and ways. All good things come to an end. The Pats will fall short in the AFC title game. BOOM.

Pantorno: Patriots. Why are we even talking about this? The only way this doesn't happen is if Tom Brady goes down. And that man drinks magical green beverages that are going to let him play until he's 73. I could be his No. 1 wide receiver and they'd still win 13 games.

NFC Champion

Burke: Panthers. I'm a firm believer in bounce-back years in the NFL. The Panthers were shooting for an undefeated season just 19 months ago and Cam Newton was the MVP that year. He's just entering his prime.

Macy: Buccaneers. Okay, it's possible I enjoyed "Hard Knocks" too much, but the Bucs really do have the recipe for success in today's NFL. A dynamic and elusive QB with a mega arm. Three insanely potent weapons to pass the ball to, and a much-improved defense. It helps that their division is relatively weak and the NFC really has no other standouts. I'm onboard the pirate ship.

Pantorno: Cardinals. David Johnson has the promise to be the NFC's Offensive Player of the Year as an explosive dual-threat out of the backfield. Carson Palmer has thrown for 4,000-plus yards in each of his last four FULL seasons and is two years removed from a 35-touchdown 2015. Oh, and he's still throwing to Larry Fitzgerald.

Super Bowl champ

Burke: Panthers. Every Super Bowl the Pats play in is unbelievably close. They're due to lose one of these tight ones after last season's miracle OT win and the Malcolm Butler/Seahawks game in 2015.

Macy: Steelers. Finally, Burke falls back to Earth. The 19-0 Patriots nonsense is nonsense. I think the Steelers, boisterous after ending the Pats season early, ride a healthy Antonio Brown and Le'Veon Bell to a Super Bowl victory over the no-show, youthful Bucs.

Pantorno: Patriots. If everyone (read that as Brady) stays healthy this team goes 19-0 or 18-1 even without Julian Edelman as one final "up yours" to Roger Goodell and the NFL.

Surprise teams

Burke: Dolphins. I'm an Adam Gase believer. He might be the best non-Belichick AFC East coach since Marv Levy. They'll be better than expected.

Macy: Cowboys. Dak Prescott will not be elite again in 2017, Ezekiel Elliott will only be eligible for 10 games and Dez Bryant is always hurt. They'll be worse than expected.

Pantorno: Browns. Cleveland will be respectable this year. Myles Garrett will win Defensive ROY and DeShone Kizer will show flashes. They'll be better than expected.

NFL MVP

Burke: Rob Gronkowski. Aaron Rodgers, Tom Brady and whichever QB turns out to be this year's Matt Ryan will have excellent but similar years. It will open the door for the NFL's first non-QB or RB to win MVP since Lawrence Taylor won it in 1986. Gronk's 2017 contract is laced with incentives and the dude needs money to go to Vegas 88 times a year. He's still only 28 years old, and if healthy (I realize that's the IF of all IFs), he's the most dominant force in pro football.

Macy: Bring on the Winston hate because he has everything a future MVP needs. Mike Evans, DeSean Jackson, Chris Godwin, OJ Howard, Doug Martin and some experience to back up the hype is a recipe for an MVP season.

Pantorno: Aaron Rodgers. A QB has won the MVP in nine of the last 10 years. That's not changing this year. This guy is coming off a 40-TD, seven-INT season and has a chip the size of Alaska on his shoulder. Jordy Nelson will be healthy and he'll be supported by Davante Adams, Randall Cobb AND newly-acquired Martellus Bennett.

NFL power rankings | by Luke Miller

No. 1

Patriots
14-2 (in 2016)

If a 28-3 deficit in the Super Bowl couldn't knock the Patriots out of this spot, losing Julian Edelman to injury isn't going to do it. All they did this offseason is bring in Brandin Cooks and Stephon Gilmore, fresh off a Pro Bowl season.

No. 2

Falcons
11-5

The Falcons, already stocked with a dynamic offense that returns Julio Jones, Devonta Freeman and others, probably brought in enough on the defensive side off-set Jalen Collins continued problems. The Super Bowl hangover is the last enemy that shall be conquered.

No. 3

Raiders
12-4

Robbed of the opportunity to see what could have been in the short term for the 2016 playoffs, the Raiders wasted no time securing Derek Carr for the long term, briefly making him the highest paid player in the NFL (before Matthew Stafford's recent extension) while they were at it.

No. 4

Chiefs
12-4

Adding Patrick Mahomes shouldn't impact the 2017 season if all goes according to plan in Kansas City, but it certainly locks down the trajectory of the franchise going forward. Of course, spending a first round pick on Mahomes ... that may impact it greatly.

No. 5

Steelers
11-5

The Steelers secondary got better as the year went on last season, but you wouldn't know it from the way they jumped at a newly unemployed Joe Haden. While they continue to add pieces on defense (T.J. Watt) it's the statuses of Martavis Bryant and Le'veon Bell that has dominated this summer.

No. 6

Packers
10-6

Most of the off-season talk, due to fantasy influences, resides around Ty Montgomery and Jamaal Williams battling for carries and the arrival of Martellus Bennett. But make no mistake, as it has in recent seasons, this team will go as far as Aaron Rodgers can carry it.

No. 7

Giants
11-5

The rich get richer when it comes to the passing game in New York. Adding Brandon Marshall and Evan Engram to Odell Beckham Jr. and Sterling Shepard was giving Eli Manning the kind of weapons treatment usually reserved for young gunslingers like Carson Wentz and Jameis Winston.

No. 8

Seahawks
10-5-1

A few years removed from their Super Bowls, Seattle remains much the same though the situation around them has changed. Their triumph came after a few seasons of competition with another team that looked ready to compete for a decade: the 49ers. Now it's the Cardinals.

No. 9

Buccaneers
9-7

There's now a scary amount of pass catching talent in Tampa. Mike Evans, the most-uncoverable man in football, gets joined by Desean Jackson, the fastest, and O.J. Howard and Chris Godwin arrive in the draft. They also poached one of the more famous roster cuts — former Bronco T.J. Ward.

No. 10

Cowboys
13-3

The final say on Ezekiel Elliott's suspension may change this ranking some. But to be honest, the decay is more influenced by disruption in the secondary (one that was a disrespected cause for the Cowboys success in 2016) and along the O-line that has been Dallas' calling card.

Best of the rest

11 — Redskins (8-7-1)
12 — Titans (9-7)
13 — Texans (9-7)
14 — Lions (9-7)
15 — Eagles (7-9)
16 — Saints (9-7)
17 — Dolphins (10-6)
18 — Panthers (6-10)
19 — Broncos (9-7)
20 — Vikings (8-8)
21 — Cardinals (7-8-1)
22 — Chargers (5-11)
23 — Bengals (6-9-1)
24 — Ravens (8-8)
25 — Colts (8-8)

3 Things to watch for as Pats host Kansas City

For all the talk of a 19-0 season, the Chiefs could absolutely upset the Patriots on Opening Night Thursday (8:30 p.m., NBC).

Kansas City nearly sent Tom Brady into early retirement three years ago on a Monday night as it clobbered the Pats, 41-14. The Chiefs defense made Brady look Mark Sanchez-esque that night as TB12 finished with a stat line of 14-of-23 for 159 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions. That was good for a passer rating of 59.9.

The Chiefs return the majority of the defense that did the damage that night. Safety Eric Berry, cornerback Marcus Peters, nose tackle Bennie Logan, and linebacker Justin Houston lead the way for the KC defense.

The Pats' offensive line, which looked suspect at times in the Super Bowl against Atlanta and the divisional round against the Texans, will need to be on point.

Blank the Chiefs

The Patriots defense gave up the least amount of points per game last season, allowing just 15.6 PPG.

The Chiefs offense doesn't exactly strike fear in the hearts of opponents as boring old Alex Smith is still under center. Some KC fans are already clamoring to give rookie Patrick Mahomes a shot, but it's almost certain the Pats will see Smith exclusively on Thursday night. Smith's main target on offense is Tyreek Hill, but look for the Pats to lock him up Deandre Hopkins-style.

Kansas City's strength on offense remains in the run game, with impressive rookie Kareem Hunt expected to get the brunt of the carries.

New toys

Patriots fans will get their first real look at wide receiver Brandin Cooks, cornerback Stephon Gilmore, tight end Dwayne Allen and wide receiver/punt returner Phillip Dorsett on Thursday night.

The Pats aren't shy about playing with their new toys in Week 1 as last year Chris Hogan came up big against Arizona (three catches for 60 yards and a touchdown) and 10 years ago Randy Moss scorched the Jets in his Pats debut with nine catches for 183 yards and a TD.

Maybe Cooks has a similar debut? MATT BURKE

NOTICE OF MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Glenda Medeiros and John G. Cremona to NCB Savings Bank FSB, dated October 30, 1995 and recorded with the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds at Book 20121, Page 273 as affected by a confirmatory mortgage recorded with said Deeds at Book 20176, Page 155, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder by assignment from NCB Savings Bank, FSB to Matrix Capital Bank dated March 24, 1997 and recorded with said registry on March 26, 2007 at Book 41504 Page 264 and by assignment from Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation as receiver for United Western Bank f/k/a Matrix Capital Bank to First-Citizens Bank & Trust Company dated May 21, 2015 and recorded with said registry on June 2, 2015 at Book 54541 Page 189, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing, the same will be sold at Public Auction at 10:00 a.m. on October 6, 2017, on the mortgaged premises located at 300 Summer Street, Unit 21, Artist Building at 300 Summer Condominium, Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage,

TO WIT: A leasehold interest in and to Live/Work Space No. 21, together with the nonexclusive use and enjoyment of the common areas, facilities and improvements in the Artist Building at 300 Summer Cooperative (''Project''), pursuant to a Proprietary Lease (''Proprietary Lease'') dated October 30, 1995, between Artist Building at 300 Summer Cooperative Corporation, as landlord, and Glenda Medeiros and John G. Cremona, as tenant; a Notice of Lease for such Proprietary Lease is being recorded herewith with the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds. The above-described Live/Work Space, together with the nonexclusive use and enjoyment of the common areas, facilities and improvements of the Project are collectively referred to as ''Leased Premises''. Pursuant to an unrecorded Assignment of Lease, also of even date herewith, the Proprietary Lease was assigned to Lender by Borrower. The Leased Premises are located within the so-called ''Artists Unit'' of the Artist Building at 300 Summer Condominium (the ''Condominium'') created pursuant to Chapter 183A of the Massachusetts General Laws as amended, by Master Deed dated October 25, 1995, and recorded with the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in Book 20105, Page 260; the location of the above-described Live/Work Space within such Artists Unit is shown on the floor plans of the Condominium recorded with the aforesaid Master Deed.

For mortgagor's(s') title see deed recorded with Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in Book 20121, Page 271.

These premises will be sold and conveyed subject to and with the benefit of all rights, rights of way, restrictions, easements, covenants, liens or claims in the nature of liens, improvements, public assessments, any and all unpaid taxes, tax titles, tax liens, water and sewer liens and any other municipal assessments or liens or existing encumbrances of record which are in force and are applicable, having priority over said mortgage, whether or not reference to such restrictions, easements, improvements, liens or encumbrances is made in the deed.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars by certified or bank check will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale. The balance is to be paid by certified or bank check at Harmon Law Offices, P.C., 150 California Street, Newton, Massachusetts 02458, or by mail to P.O. Box 610389, Newton Highlands, Massachusetts 02461-0389, within thirty (30) days from the date of sale. Deed will be provided to purchaser for recording upon receipt in full of the purchase price. The description of the premises contained in said mortgage shall control in the event of an error in this publication.

Other terms, if any, to be announced at the sale.

Aries Emotions will surface and could cause trouble if you cannot control what you do or say. Concentrate on personal growth and your outward appeal.

Taurus Go over your important papers or contracts and make any adjustments that are needed. A discussion with a colleague or instructor will result in positive personal.

Gemini If you pitch in and help, the rewards will be worth your time and effort. Make family a priority and put a passionate relationship at the top of your list.

Cancer Get along with others. Communal effort will make it much easier to reach your goal. Express your thoughts and concerns and be willing to listen to good advice.

Leo Don't give in to someone taking advantage of you. Be clear regarding your expectations and what you want in return. Stick to the people you know you can trust.

Virgo Do the work yourself and save some money. Use your skills to fix minor problems at home or find natural ways to improve your health and avoid unnecessary costs.

Libra Draw on your experience and the people you know you can count on. Someone who has a tendency to bully will question a change you try to implement.

Scorpio Don't feel that you must follow the crowd. Impulsive or risky pursuits may work for some, but you aren't likely to prosper if you get involved. Do your own thing.

Sagittarius Welcome change. Whether it's learning something new or going somewhere different, these experiences will have an impact on the way you live.

Capricorn Don't be fooled by what others do. Following the crowd will not turn out as planned. Use your intelligence and go in a direction that allows you to practice your skills.

Aquarius Revisit old ideas and consider how to update and implement them into your current situation. Relationships will weigh heavily on the decisions you make.

Pisces Look for alternative ways to put your skills, knowledge and experience to use. If someone stands in your way, back away and do your own thing. EUGENIA LAST
